FamilySearch.org One World Tree

FS Goal: One complete, accurate record for every person ever born.

What's new at familysearch.org for 2017?

The new personalized homepage.

1. familysearch shows you the latest project they have finished.

2. You can see the latest photos and stories attached to anyone on your familytree from 'Memories.'

3. See and add new sources straight from the homepage.

Familysearch is making it easier than ever to connect with others searching your relatives.

Send messages through FS even when they don't leave an email.

Every photo, story and document added by anyone to a person on your tree will show up in that relatives person page. And you can contact the submitters and watch any changes.

Familytree lite offers a streamlined view of your family tree. A simpler site means a faster connection and less data used. Going back to the basics can show you errors and missing information.

As of August 31, 2017 you will no longer be able to order films (the cost!). Familysearch is working non-stop to scan all the books and microfilm in its vast collections and make everything available online. Goal is 2020!

Family.me, a new app partnering with FamilySearch has created a private social media network specifically for families. It works on both desktops and mobile devices. Download your familytree from FamilySearch.org and invite family members to add their up-to-date photos.

FamilySearch is spending most of its time and resources on indexing records, scanning books and making all microfilm. AND on Mobile Apps! Here are the latest and greatest.

The most complete family histories use a wide variety of resources. Use the FamilySearch Memories App to record oral histories. FamilySearch has 2 FREE Apps- Family Tree and Memories.

Both the FamilySearch Tree and the Memories Apps sync with the website, so all changes and additions you make on your mobile device will show up on the site and visa versa!

In the FamilySearch Tree App there is now a new feature called Relatives Around Me. It will connect you to others within a 100 feet radius. They will need to open the App and it will search for anyone in the area related to you.
